HOME ORGANIZATION & STAGING

Confidentiality

We will not disclose, divulge, reveal, report or use any confidential information that we have received without the prior written consent of the client (excluding illegal materials/activities).

Process Ownership

You maintain “process ownership” at all times. This means you are part of the process of purging, sorting, and organizing of all belongings, accessories, and furnishings. While we may gently encourage letting go of items that have served their purpose, the final decision will always remain yours. Together, we will determine where and how your discarded items will be dealt with. We agree to remove up to one full van-load for donation.

Do you give Your Last Resort permission to take non-identifying before and after pictures of your space for marketing purposes?
